Open evenings.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Hyperion. This evening John L. Stoddard will return to give the last lecture but one in his justly popular series. The Hyperion will be crowded to hear one of the most interesting of the lecturer's souvenirs of foreign lands, that which tells of his travels in Norway, where he enjoyed the unique spectacle of the Midnight Sun.

"Blue Jeans," a play depicting life among the Hoosiers, as the residents of Indiana are oftentimes called, will be given this evening. It is a very enjoyable play. One may laugh heartily at the fun of the play furnished in a half dozen plain characters, and a village band called "The Rising Sun Rangers," or be visibly affected by the pathetic experiences of a young wife doomed to despair, or the brave and manly husband, Perry Blasco, fighting against cruel circumstances. For those who enjoy realism, "Blue Jeans" will be a rare treat, and in its way will be a strikingly reaches this element in the drama.

"Nancy" is the name of a new operatic comedy that the public is laughing itself hoarse over. It is presented by dainty Fanny Rice who, as everybody knows, is pretty, vivacious and full of chic, and supported by a strong company, aside from the music, much of which is of a comical character. She will be seen in the comedy on Thursday evening. Sale of seats opens on Tuesday.

Grand Opera House. Wilbur's opera company will open a week's engagement at the Grand opera house to-night. Commencing to-morrow there will be a matinee every day.

The company is a large one, and includes a number of performers whose names are identified with comic opera in this country. The costuming and effects of the opera are of a high class, and the performances will no doubt merit liberal patronage from local theatergoers. "The Black Hussar" is the opera to be sung this evening. It is a very amusing one, and the music is bright and catchy. But aside from the opera another special feature will be presented, and the feature is the living pictures that were so much appreciated when the company was here last August. These pictures are works of art, and many of the pictures are so excellent that they surpass even the original paintings. The living pictures are under the personal supervision of Miss Susie Kerwin, who has added several new ones since last seen here, and at great expense and trouble the picture of "Trilby" has been given an exact representation of Du Maurier's "Trilby." Miss Kerwin having studied the effects and drapings from the original painting now on exhibition in New York.

Seats are now on sale for the various operas. Secure your tickets in advance and avoid the rush for the standing room sign is certain to be displayed at every performance. The following is the repertoire for the week:

Tuesday matinee, "Black Hussar."
Tuesday night, "Boccaccio."
Wednesday matinee, "Boccaccio."
Wednesday night, "Fra Diavolo."
Thursday matinee, "Dorothy."
Thursday night, "Bohemian Girl."
Friday matinee, "Merry War."
Friday night, "Indiana."
Saturday matinee, "Nell Gwynne."
Saturday night, "Tanka."

The wonderful collection of Prof. Schurr, consisting of bugs, beetles, snakes, birds and other curiosities will remain in the lecture hall annex at the Grand opera house this week. The collection has been visited during the past week by thousands who are loud in their praise of the energy and patience shown by Prof. Schurr in getting such an instructive and interesting collection together. Not content with these object lessons Mr. Bunnell has added still another novelty, a gorgeous reproduction of the Mardi Gras festival as given in New Orleans. All parties attending the performances at the Grand opera house are admitted to lecture hall to view the objects of interest free of charge.

Poll's Wonderland Theater. Interest is already aroused over the great European novelty, Grandjean and May. Mr. Grandjean and Miss May have no rivals in their double act, and there is but one man living who has ever attempted to perform some of the sensational feats that Mr. Grandjean executes. In some respects, while dressed as a woman, he has no imitators, and there are in fact but one or two more who can somersault at all on the wire. Undoubtedly these splendid sensational artists will meet the same success here that has attended them in the chief cities of Europe and America. In addition an unusually strong bill will be presented at the Wonderland, including the Johnson trio, Napier and Marzelo, Pete Shaw, the Durrell twin brothers, Miss Gladys Van, the Emmet trio, William H. Daly and others, who make up one of the most evenly balanced combinations ever brought together at the local home of vaudeville.

"The Brownies." "The Brownies" which have delighted the hosts who read St. Nicholas are figuring in a play at the Fourteenth street theatre and may soon be seen at the Hyperion in this city. And a wonderful sight they are. The dazzling spectacle in which they appear is in three acts and eight scenes. The first act is a view of the fairy realm of Queen Titania, who is about to marry Florimel, the adopted Brownie prince. The nuptials are interrupted by Dragonfel, an evil spirit who sees in the union of Brownies and Fays a moral trust that will be fatal to his peace of mind and well being. He and his followers under the guise of friends and gift bearers gain entrance to the palace and abduct the queen to a mountainous sea coast where Dragonfel is seen bearing off the fairy bride pursued by the Brownie band weighted down in extravagant fashion with all sorts of ships' implements, such as huge anchors, leads, marine glasses, compasses, etc. The last scene of the act discloses the Brownies on a huge raft in mid-ocean, where their course is disrupted by a fiery-eyed sea dragon. Many mishaps overtake them during this pictorial episode. The duke falls overboard and is picked up by a colorful sea bird. Other Brownies are seen

RHEUMATIC PAINS. Dr. David Kennedy's statement that the real cause of Rheumatism was the imperfect action of the kidneys, and that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy opened the pass off, relief and comfort following as a natural result was so reasonable that sufferers seized at it with avidity and many a victim of Rheumatism, Sciatica and Lumbago has been cured by using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

making their escape in a flying airship. The Chinaman falls overboard and is saved by means of a life preserver, etc. Finally Euphrosyne, the Goddess of Mirth, appears in Neptune's sea chariot and the turbulent waters are calmed.

The second act finds the band outside Dragonfel's castle. There is a Brownie moon whom they serenade and who sings to them in turn, finally puts his night cap on and bids them good night. Disguised as a German band they enter the castle to take part in an entertainment which Dragonfel has arranged to divert the Queen. An Oriental ballet and a novel demoniac feat is here introduced. The German band is soon discovered to be the Brownies. Dragonfel, cornered, calls on Vulcan to rend the mountains and a startling earthquake and volcanic eruption follow, which the band promptly proceeds to extinguish with a hose operated by an old-fashioned hand engine.

The third act discovers the Brownies as slaves in the jeweled mines of Dragonfel, from which they send a dove to fairyland for assistance. Incidental to this scene, several novelties in the way of song and dance are introduced. The dove bears the message to Euphrosyne, who, with the fairies, comes to the aid of the band. The final transformation is symbolic of a night in Brownie land, and the final transformation is of exceptional ingenuity and exquisite beauty.

"The Brownies" are great fun for the children, and the men and women who have followed their adventures will also enjoy their antics on the stage.

STATE TURNERS MEET. Delegates from various cities in town yesterday.

About twenty-five delegates from the various Turner societies in the state held a meeting in this city yesterday. In the morning they participated in athletic exercises, which were held in Turn hall under the direction of Instructor Viola of Bridgeport. Stells of Hartford, Sambras of Holyoke and Dr. Herman Arnold of this city. In the afternoon a business meeting was held, and matters pertaining to the athletic meeting to be held in Paterson, N. J., on June 20-22 were discussed.

There will be eighty-nine societies represented at Paterson and the local Turners will send thirty of their number.

After the meeting yesterday the visitors were entertained. Last evening the local Turners held a private entertainment, which included turning, selections by the Philharmonic orchestra and recitations by Mr. Emerson of the Bostonians. The societies represented were from Hartford, Meriden, Bridgeport, Rockville, Holyoke and Waterbury.
